

Now Hiring Freelance Floral Designers

The 2022 wedding season is about to kick off and we are looking for joyful, creative people to join our team. We grow the flowers we use in our arrangements at our Hood River farm, which means they are always vibrantly fresh and full of life. We specialize in heirloom and unusual varieties that are not available to the mainstream commercial florist trade. Our arrangements celebrate the season and have a wild, garden-gathered look even though we put a lot of thought into putting them together.

The wedding and event side of our business has continued to grow. We expect to do a wedding every weekend during the 2022 growing season. We are looking for a few freelancers to help the season go smoothly and fulfill our goal of creating flower arrangements that blow our customers' minds.

If you are interested, please send an email to Heather Staten at heather@heathersflowerfarm.com with your resume and a bit about yourself (portfolio or photos of your work is a bonus).

Apply if you:

- Love flowers and weddings
- Like the buzz of “showtime” and can maintain a positive can-do attitude working long hours and under pressure putting together an event
- Are comfortable working with supervision but also like bringing your own ideas
- Delight in creating beautiful moments
- Can lift heavy objects and preferably climb ladders
- Are available on Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays

Depending on level of experience, the job will include: processing flowers, prepping vessels, organizing/cleaning workspace, floral design, onsite support, and installations. Pay $15-25/hour based on experience.

Floral design mostly occurs at our Hood River farm but wedding work will require onsite installation, set up, and breakdown at venues throughout the Columbia Gorge.
